RS Components lead the way with a new 'open' punchout from the @UK eMarketplace

RS Components in association with @UK PLC have pioneered a new, innovative way of allowing customers to access their punchout through the @UK eMarketplace. The open punchout allows all customers to view a generic set of products and prices. This allows any customer to view RS's catalogue and purchase in the normal way. There is now no need for the usual setup process for each buying organisation.

Are you ready to trade online?

A few things you need to consider,

1. Have you informed any of your customers that you have a website up and running?

Much like if you open a new office or shop in a new location you would need to inform your customers in order that they know where to find you, It is important that you let your new and existing customers know that you now have an online store ready to take their business.

2. Have you created accounts for your customers so they can access your site and view their special prices where applicable?

You can set up an account on your site for any of the purchasing organisations using our purchasing system, you can then market yourselves to these buyers to increase your business traffic coming through your website. You can view a list of the buying organisations at this link: http://websites.uk-plc.net/UK_PLC/epage5624.htm you can also create accounts for any new or existing customer whether they are public or private sector.

Competition

Congratulations to Sarah Grant from Maddison Business Systems Ltd

<http://websites.uk-plc.net/MADDISON%5FBUSINESS%5FSYSTEMS%5FLTD/>

Sarah correctly answered Issue 12's question of Who was under the Umbrella—The answer was Rob Greville.

For your chance to win an @UK Umbrella, please answer this very simple question:

What is the name of the New Site Generator Template called?

- A) Bubbles
- B) Scuba
- C) Shamrock

When you have the answer email traders at traders@ukplc.net and the winner will be randomly picked.

We Still Need You!!

We are still looking for input from Traders Club members on the Site Generator Control Centre development
