The Traders Forum Is Here!

We are very proud to announce the @UK PLC Traders Forum is now up and running.

The forum will allow all Site Generator traders to find user guides to help with the setup and use of their package. There will also be information about the other services we provide for example purchasing a domain name, which you can link your Site Generator package.

You can tell us what you would like to see improved in your package and post support questions if you are having problems.

Finally the most important feature is the forum will allow all traders to talk with each other about anything and everything! Share your experiences, bounce ideas and get advice from other traders who use the Site Generator package on a day to day basis.

Join the traders forum at www.traders.ukplc.net. To find out how you can do this please check out the 'How do I?' section of this issue of traders news.
